Things To-Do

Research salary data

• Conduct research to understand salary data and ranges for your desired roles within public health. Utilize resources such as salary surveys, industry reports, and online databases to gather relevant information.

Prepare a negotiation strategy

• Develop a personalized negotiation strategy that considers both your salary and benefits. This strategy should include setting clear salary expectations, identifying desired benefits, and practicing effective negotiation techniques.

Network and seek guidance

• Reach out to mentors, peers, or professionals in the field to seek guidance and insights on salary negotiation. Networking with individuals who have experience in negotiating compensation packages can provide valuable advice and insights.

Practice

 Role-play or participate in a mock negotiation to build confidence and refine your negotiation skills. Practicing various negotiation techniques and responses to common salary negotiation scenarios can help you feel more prepared and confident when negotiating job offers.
